Maher M. Dabbah : Competition Law and Policy in the Middle East before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Competition Law and Policy in the Middle East:

Competition Law and Policy in the Middle East examines and critically analyses the development and role of competition law and policy in one of the most interesting regions of the world. The importance of the Middle East within the global political and economic arenas gives this book huge international significance and interest. The book will prove useful to a variety of audiences around the world: to the competition law specialists, to the students of the subject, to policy-makers and politicians in the Middle East and to those whose work deals with law and economics and who wish to know more about competition law and policy in this special part of the world.

"This book is an unprecedented exploration of competition law and policy in the Middle East....COMPETITION LAW AND POLICY IN THE MIDDLE EAST provides an interesting perspective as to how the competition policies were formulated in the various Middle eastern countries, which I am sure, most readers would find fascinating. The book is written for an academic audience..." --Wayne McIntosh, Editor, The Law and Politics Book
