Lisa Strelein : Compromised Jurisprudence: Native Title Cases Since Mabo before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Compromised Jurisprudence: Native Title Cases Since Mabo:

The effects of the evolution of native title on Australian jurisprudence are carefully examined in this updated chronicle that covers everything from the original decision Mabo v Queensland [No.2] to the significant High Court cases in 2002 and the recent Bennell decision in 2008. This remarkably accessible exploration provides critical analysis of 10 significant cases, a time line that maps the trajectory of key doctrines, and identification of the underlying themes and contradictions in the law. Containing an updated, annotated case list and a revised introduction and conclusion that comment on recent developments, this new edition of a unique critique will be infinitely useful to scholars, students, legal practitioners, the judiciary, and policy makers, among others.

"In a remarkably accessible format, Strelein provides succinct and considered analyses of 10 major native title decisions with considered reflections on the evolving jurisprudence. Compromised Jurisprudence will be invaluable to those working in the area of native title." Garth Nettheim, professor emeritus, faculty of law, University of New South Wales
