Bruno Zanettin : Cooperation Between Antitrust Agencies at the International Level before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Cooperation Between Antitrust Agencies at the International Level:

This book addresses the issue of international antitrust enforcement, focusing on bilateral cooperation between antitrust agencies, in particular the European Commission and the US agencies. It shows how bilateral cooperation was developed as a response to the limits of the unilateral and extraterritorial application of national competition laws, and how it has evolved from an instrument initially designed to avoid conflicts into a tool aimed at coordinating joint investigations of international competition cases. It then considers how bilateral cooperation could be optimally used, by analyzing two forms of advanced cooperation: the exchange of confidential information, and positive comity.

.this is an interesting, provocative, and well-written text, which merits reading, and which may be strongly recommended. Dr Mark Furse, University of Glasgow European Competition Law August 2004
