2010/2011: Supplement:

Annotated collection of social security legislation on housing This annotated collection of the legislation governing housing benefit and council tax benefit is recognised as the authoritative guide to a particularly complex and continually changing area of law. Practitioners have to use the latest annual edition in order to keep abreast of developments affecting claimants throughout England, Wales and Scotland. In the light of the latest changes to law and practice, the 13th edition is completely revised and updated with new statutory material accompanied by a re-worked expert commentary. The commentary includes analysis and interpretation of provisions, the latest case law (Review Board and court decisions), reference to official guidance, coverage of how benefits are administered and help with practice. All information is fully indexed and cross referenced. This edition is published earlier than other recent issues in preparation for the 2001 transfer of housing benefit appeal cases from local authority Housing Benefit Review Boards to the national Appeals Service, which currently handles cases concerning all other social security benefits. The changeover is expected to increase demand for this publication. Paul Stagg is a barrister specialising in housing benefit cases. Users include lawyers, advisers, local authority administrators, Housing Benefit Review Board members and their clerks, and students. From 2001 it will be supplied to Appeals Service tribunal members.

"A work which no one concerned with housing benefits can be without" - Family Law "An important tool for anyone advising about housing benefit" - The Law Society's Gazette "An indispensable guide for all those advising claimants in whatever capacity" - Scots Law Times "A most valuable addition to social security law" - New Law Journal"
